

AUDIENCE HEAR LIVELY DEBATE IN MOCK HOUSE

Meagre Attendance Greatly Disappoints Debating Union Executive.

GOVERNMENT VICTORY

House Evenly Split on Debated Issue—Speaker Casts Deciding Vote

By P.S.

DESPITE the amazingly few number of students present, last night's mock parliament, held in the ballroom of the Union was a decided success judging from the arguments submitted by the Government and the opposition on the motion "Resolved That This House Favors A Popular Boycott of Japanese Goods By The Canadian People". The debate was a combination of formal and humorous discussion, both resulting in the enactment of numerous hectic scenes in which many of the technicalities of the rules of parliament were waived. The speaker of the house, Alfred Pick, president of the Debating Union, was very lenient in his rulings, otherwise several speakers of both sides would have been ejected for their breach of parliamentary discipline.

The acuteness of the governmental crisis which was witnessed by the scant number of members of parliament present, may be well judged by the fact that the house was deadlocked when the vote on the motion was taken, and it was necessary for the speaker to cast his vote. This he did in favour of the government, and thus the motion introduced by the government was upheld, and its resignation was avoided.

The government forces were led by Premier Jack Gross, and their arguments centered around the contentions that it was imperative that Canada act to end Japan's unrighteous attack of China, and her brutal atrocities committed against the civilian population of the country. Large sections of the Canadian people have expressed their willingness to participate in a boycott of Japanese goods, and therefore the government should endorse such action. A decrease in the importation of Japanese merchandise would be a stimulus to Canadian home manufacture. Canada must, stated a government speaker, do its utmost to rebuke nations such as Japan who flout international law, and threaten to

ECONOMISTS HOLD INITIAL GATHERING

THE Political Economy Club will open its season this evening at 8:30 in the reading room of the McGill Union when David Fraser and Ronald Bennett will present papers on "The Constitutional Implications of the Abdication of Edward VIII".

The Executive of the Club extends a welcome to all men students for this meeting, and subsequent ones which will be held on the last Thursday of each month. A general discussion will take place after the papers have been read, during which either of the speakers may be questioned.

The president, Bob Sylvestre, has announced several innovations in the program for this year. The outstanding feature for the Club is a Mock Parliament. This plan will be arranged by several committees, which will attend to the full organization of detail. The inaugural Mock Parliament will be held at the first meeting of the second term, and attention will be paid to correct parliamentary procedure throughout the affair the executive stated.

REMEMBRANCE DAY

Remembrance Day, Thursday 11th November 1937, is a University holiday. There will be no lectures and Administrative Offices will be closed.

T. H. MATTHEWS, Secretary.

CHEAP RATES MADE FOR VARSITY GAME

SPECIAL football excursion rates to Toronto for the forthcoming McGill - Varsity fricas have been obtained by the Athletic Board of the University. The tickets are being offered by the Canadian National Railways for Friday, November 5th, and may be used until Tuesday midnight next. The tickets are priced at eight dollars for the return trip, including admission to the game.

The C.N.R. is running only one special excursion train from Montreal, but the tickets may be used for any Montreal-bound train, except the flyers, for the return trip. Any students desiring to obtain these coupons may do so by depositing the cost at the Athletic office. When the tickets arrive they will be forwarded immediately.

BAYLEY DISCUSSES WORLD SITUATION AT CLUB MEETING

Accuses Britain and Italy of Stalemate Attempts of Non-Intervention

SOVIET FEARS ISOLATION

Grave Eastern Situation Inflamed by Foreign Interests Involved

"THE Non-Intervention Committee," in the opinion of Mr. C. C. Bayley, who spoke at Strathcona Hall yesterday afternoon, "is restless, feverish, and yet patient, subject to sudden internal convulsions, and lapsing into a state of death-like coma." The workings of the Committee are deadlocked by Anthony Eden, who is attempting to avoid the armed intervention of Great Britain, and by Dino Grandi, who is manoeuvring the Committee into a stalemate in order to gain more time for his government to act.

Britain is not interested in the future government of Spain, said Mr. Bayley, so long as it does not affect the passage of British naval and merchant ships into and out of the Mediterranean. Hence the Nyon accord, which mobilized the forces of all the Great Powers to prevent piracy by supposedly-anonymous craft in the Mediterranean. The aid of other nations had to be enlisted due to the fact that Britain's forces alone are not sufficient to patrol the Mediterranean; nor, for that matter, to cope with a single Great Power such as Italy.

Whereas England's interests are not vitally threatened, France is keenly concerned over the possibility of severing her North African "life-line" and thus preventing easy access to the vast store of black manpower in her African colonies.

PHILOSOPHICAL SOCIETY

"IN order to study philosophy intelligently it is necessary for every man to have a conception and philosophy of his own," was the theme of the talk delivered last night at the first meeting of the Philosophical Society in Strathcona Hall by Mr. C. Currie, Miss Forrest Burt, president of the Society, was in the chair. The chairman pointed out that the aim of the Society was to discuss all topics of general interest, and that not only philosophy students, but all those who are interested in the subject were invited to attend the meetings.

Science seeks to formulate all experience, Mr. Currie also stated, but philosophy deals with the beginning of these sciences and criticizes them. The speaker, when referring to a definition of philosophy said that it was difficult to define the term unless each person possessed a philosophy of his own. Mr. Currie outlined the different views of philosophers and their ways of interpreting life.

A discussion concerning Philosophy and Science and the relationship between them, followed. Dr. Hendel, Dean of the Faculty of Arts, and head of the Philosophy Department helped to contribute some interesting facts to the discussion. Refreshments were served at the end of the meeting.

S.P.M. TO HEAR DEAN HENDEL ON 'WHY PEACE'

Peace Movement Executive Recounts Achievements of Past Year

ARMISTICE DAY PLANS

Arrangements Being Made for Talks by Many Outstanding Speakers

AN evaluation of the role of current peace sentiment will be presented by Dean C. W. Hendel when he addresses a meeting of students tomorrow at five o'clock, on the topic "Why Peace?" This meeting, open to all students, marks the opening of season's activities by the McGill Student Peace Movement and will be held at Strathcona Hall. Alfred Pick member of the McGill S.P.M. committee will chair the meeting.

This meeting marks the first of a series in which many outstanding speakers will be brought to the campus. Arrangements are already being made to this effect by the executive. In addition to an educational program, other activities are being planned including participation by students in the Armistice celebrations being planned by numerous Youth organizations in the city.

Last year the principle activity of the Student Peace Movement was the sponsoring of the "National Student Peace Petition." The petition which received the endorsement of Student Councils in universities comprising over half the total number of students in Canada was presented to the Dominion Cabinet on March 15.

The two demands of the Petition were (1) The abolition of Conscription for active service abroad by order-in-council.

(2) Due action should be taken by the Cabinet to ensure that Canada is not necessarily at war when Great Britain declares war.

Later the Petition was advocated by the Student Peace Movement delegates to the Canadian Youth Congress meeting at Montreal. There it was almost unanimously accepted and sent on as a special cable to the Canadian delegation at the Imperial Conference in London. The Youth Congress had a total representation of 550,000 thousand young Canadians.

The executive points out that while the Government did not act on the petition, it nevertheless had a positive influence in arousing students throughout the country into a consideration of the problem for foreign policy. One member of the Executive pointed out to the Daily: "It is my conviction that the Student Petition jointly with similar expressions of opinion by other sections of the community, had a very

Engineers Hold Second Debate; Negative of Resolution Upheld

Howard Monogues Judged the Best Speaker—Professor Calliton at Odds in 2 to 1 Vote of Judges — Gives Constructive Criticism

PROFESSOR J. CULLITON was the judge of the second of their series of debates, held by the Engineering Debating Society last night. His associates were John H. McDonald and Sam Mislav. Supporting the affirmative of the resolution: "Resolved that Canada's future foreign policy should be based on co-operation with the United States rather than with Great Britain," were Barney Smyth and Sid Abramowitz of the class of '40. Victoriously upholding the negative were the forty-oners Bill Viner and Howard Monogues.

Smyth said that by increasing the trade with the United States, free trade will be brought about between that country and Great Britain, thus connecting the two great forces. He then proceeded to condemn the British foreign policy saying that Britain's only reason for protecting the lesser countries is to prevent the further strengthening of the other European powers. He said that her laissez-faire attitude is no assurance of peace. In case of war, he said, Great Britain is quite vulnerable whereas the United States are not. Bound by the Monroe Doctrine, the United States are bound to protect Canada in case of attack.

Viner, the first speaker of the negative said that close co-operation with the United States would be detrimental to Canadian interests in that the consequent lowering of tariffs would allow the American manufacturers to dump their goods in Canada and so smother the Canadian industries.

The Americans, he said, would capitalize on Canada's resources at the expense of Canadians. The United States, he asserted, does not protect her foreign investments as does Great Britain; Canadian investments would therefore be endangered by close co-operation with the United States.

Abramowitz, the second speaker of the affirmative, referring to

PROF. P. J. TURNER DEPICTS CASTLES

St. James Literary Society Hears Address On English Feudal Grandeur

1,500 RUINED CASTLES

"MAY the castle for many years continue to adorn the English countryside," With this hope Professor Philip J. Turner closed his address to the St. James Literary Society last night on "The Castles of England."

Prof. Turner in his lecture gave a detailed account of the evolution of the castle, emphasizing that it was a "fortified dwelling intended for the purposes of residence and defense" fulfilling in every respect the duties of architecture both military and civil. The practical utility of the structure as a home and as a defensible dwelling has influenced every stage in its evolution.

"The tragedy of the castle," the speaker declared, "consisted in the fact that it had to withstand the deliberate and determined attempts by the brethren of the builders to raze it to the ground." Thus the castle is "Architecture fighting for life."

He estimated that fifteen hundred castles dotted the countryside in bygone days. Each edifice defended within its structure the traditions, and aspirations towards unity of the English people by repelling hostile invaders and aiding in establishing law and order in the general chaos which constituted feudalism.

FUNERAL RITES FOR DR. FANTHAM

Professor Hatcher Pays Glorious Tribute to Deceased Colleague

BURIAL SATURDAY

ALL members of the university who desire to pay their personal respects, as well as attend the funeral of the late Professor Fantham may do so on Thursday and Friday afternoons at Apartment 74, 406 Pine avenue. The funeral will be held at 2:30 p.m. Saturday from Christ Church Cathedral.

Strathcona Professor of Zoology at McGill for 5 years prior to his death last Tuesday, Professor Fantham leaves behind a record attesting to his reputation as an assiduous worker. Proof of this phase of his character is offered by the large number of scientific papers on various phases of work in his field which he published during his long and distinguished career.

Perhaps no more sincere tribute has been paid to Professor Fantham since his death than that given by Professor Hatcher, a close associate of the deceased. Pointing to the large increase in the number of Zoology students in recent years as significant of Professor Fantham's popularity amongst the student body Professor Hatcher further stressed the unusual pains the former Zoology head took to attend to the difficulties of each and every student in his classes.

"Efficiency, punctuality, and meticulousness" were the words em-

COMMITTEE HEAD ANNOUNCES DATE OF CHARITY DRIVE

Urgent Call for Co-operation on Campus Sounded by Committee

$3,500 OBJECTIVE

Clarence R. Gross Appointed Chairman of Amalgamated Campaign Committee

THE McGill Amalgamated Charities committee announced last night that November 2 to November 12 will mark the actual dates of the drive which is aiming this year at an objective of $3,500. The Committee headed by Chairman Clarence Gross assisted by Hugh Doheny and William Hushion, vice-chairman, Morton Godine, secretary, and John McDonald, Special Names, stressed the importance of students giving their contributions to canvassers on the campus instead of contributing to the individual charities as they are carried on in the city. A special names list will feature this year's drive and the committee also announced that Douglas Hall will be canvassed as an individual unit.

Inaugurated last year the amalgamated drive on the campus met with great success and the committee in calling again for support pointed out the necessity of upholding McGill's reputation in such an objective.

Due to the pertinence of the following letter to the matter in hand and the importance of its contents the Executive deems it necessary to reprint the following statement, in letter form, issued by the campaign chairman:

"Fellow Students: Within the next few days, the opening of the McGill Amalgamated Charities campaign for 1937 will be announced. I wish therefore to take this opportunity to appeal to the student body for its whole-hearted support. Particularly do I address myself to those students who have been in the habit of making their contributions to the city-wide drive.

With the co-operation and knowledge of the directors of the city drive, I appeal to your particularly, who are in the habit of handing in your contributions down town, to make them through your University. The cause is the same—the destination of your donation is the same, but you will have the added satisfaction of helping your University campaign attain its objective.

The Charities campaign at McGill has attracted the attention of the entire community, for its innovations and experiments in the cause of social service. The spirit of co-operation, fostered by all of us, has attracted the approval of all sections of the community. It is for this reason that I appeal to all students to lend their generous support to the drive, and while I hope to have the opportunity of

GLEE CLUB OF RVC PLANS BROADCAST

THE annual tea of the R.V.C. Glee Club will be held this afternoon in the drawing room of R.V.C. at four o'clock, when Noreen Patterson, the President, will welcome to the Club all women newcomers, outlining the program for the year.

As well as their own practices once every week, they will have two a month with the boys' club to enable them to sing songs requiring mixed voices. Only some of the executive positions have thus far been filled: President, Noreen Patterson; Vice-President, Helen Kydd; Librarian, Dorothy Taylor.

As usual, there will be a concert in March, and this year the boys will probably be in it. In addition, the R.V.C. Club hopes to broadcast a concert over the radio after the New Year, although plans have not yet been completed.

SOCIAL PROBLEMS CLUB CONVENES TO ELECT EXECUTIVE

General Discussion on Aims and Organization Planned

CHOOSE COUNCIL

Members Will Be Encouraged to Participate Actively in Program

THE first regular meeting of the Social Problems Club will be held Monday, November 1, at 5 p.m., in Strathcona Hall. The meeting will take the form of a membership gathering for the election of a council and an executive. There will also be a general discussion on the purpose and plans of the club. The outgoing executive is arranging next Monday's get-together in order to clarify and thrash out the stand of the Social Problems Club on the questions which its great variety of speakers have placed before the student body. The executive feels that a recent editorial in the McGill Daily which mentioned the Spanish Art exhibition points to a lack of understanding of the club's role.

Reports will thus be given by Hamilton Hay and Saul Wolofsky on the past activities of the clubs as well as what they consider to be its function for the coming term. As for the election of officers, it has been proposed that a council of some 12 to 15 members be elected. The function of the council will be that of determining the club policy as well as pass on its general activities. There is also an executive of five, whose function it will be to carry out the decisions of the council and line up the day-to-day programme. Both the executive and the council will be elected at Monday's meeting.

Last year the Social Problems Club attracted to its meetings many students—ranging from 20 at its smallest membership meeting to 300, when an outstanding speaker was present. Such well known figures—

LITERATURE SOCIETY

Members of the Literature Society and others who are interested in newspaper and literary work will meet at three o'clock this afternoon in room 13 of the Arts Building where they will be addressed by two members of the "Daily" editorial staff, on the subject, "The Gentle Art of Journalism." The speakers will devote some attention to the influence of newspaper work on literature through the medium of journalists who graduated from the reportorial ranks into those of the literary world.

The furthering or hindering effects of journalistic idiom on modern literary style—carried into the field of literature by authors and others schooled in the field of newspaper writing as well as a discussion of the mechanics of news writing itself will be included by the speakers.

Also to be stressed is the superiority of newspaper jargon over certain superfluously decorated literary styles in conveying an idea in the clear and concise language of today.

LOYALIST ACT DENOUNCED AS RED ATROCITY

Professor Sugars Recounts Tale of Torture of Aged Duke

COLUMBUS' DESCENDANT

Ramirez Headed Clique That Murdered de Veragua—Angelita Was Heroine

DUE to extraneous circumstances Professor Sugars, head of the Spanish Department, was unable to deliver his scheduled address to the Spanish Club at its first meeting in the McGill Union last night. However, due to the peculiar nature of his speech, Professor Sugars has requested that it be included verbatim. The speech follows:

We should in the future make every effort to have our first meeting on the 12th of October, el día de la raza, the glorious day celebrated over the whole Spanish-speaking world, the day on which Cristobal Colon discovered America. We might with the aid of our friends, organize on that date a little celebration which would also serve to give to our first-year students the best kind of an introduction to one another and to the students of the higher years.

You must have seen in all our papers the great enthusiasm in all Spanish-speaking countries as well as in Italy, for you know Italy persists in claiming Columbus as her own. But in the foreign papers a note of sadness and of horror disturbed the harmony. Each recalled with new and more ghastly details the dastardly murder in Madrid some 13 months ago of the aged Duke de Veragua, last direct descendant of the celebrated explorer. Since this abominable deed was not recorded in any of our English papers, neither when it was perpetrated, nor now again on the occasion of the recent festivities, you can not have heard of it. Therefore it is my painful duty to tell you the gruesome story.

QUIESCENT DUKE

This aged gentleman of simple, modest and elegant manners, apportioned his time between Madrid and a charming estate which he possessed at Valjuanele near Toledo. His palace at Madrid was situated in the district of San Matteo where the Duke passed a life of seclusion and study. Study and the rearing of horses were his chief occupations. He possessed the only stud of pure Arab horses in Europe. He did not mingle in politics or in society. He lived in his magnificent library and appeared so seldom in public that he was looked upon as a recluse (solitario is the word the Spanish use). But when he did appear all his neighbours would salute him with affection and deference. His library contained most precious documents relating to his own family and to their fortunes. But in all the American republics, which as you know preserve the memory of Cristobal Colon as a kind of religious cult, the aged Duke was regarded as the most sacred document of all, a living document, in whose veins still ran the blood of the great discoverer. In the first days of the Revolution the ambassadors of Chile and Argentina showed an active concern for the safety of this fine old nobleman. They went together to the Minister of State, Alvarez del Vayo—you will have seen this gentleman's name in the papers recently coupled with that of Negri—and asked him to give them a guarantee that the Duke would not be molested. Del Vayo reassured them. The Duke was in no danger, he said. He was outside politics. He had no enemies. No one would touch him. But the government was not run by the so-called ministers. Mob rule prevailed, and laws were dictated by armed bands, each with its own secret headquarters, secret prison and sometimes secret burial place. There were 80,000 bandits organized in this way. Under the pretext of hunting down the enemies of the people—enemigos del pueblo—these bands invaded the palaces of the rich and the houses of the well-to-do, turned out the inhabitants and took possession. The rightful owners were thrust into

WORLD NEWS FROM A TELEGRAPH KEY

BRITISH

LONDON.—Great Britain sent the battle cruiser Hood to Mallorca yesterday to keep an eye on the strategic Balearic Islands.

The move came as Foreign Secretary Eden tried to keep the Non-Intervention Subcommittee on the road to removal of foreign volunteers from Spain.

The Hood, the world's largest warship, sailed from Gibraltar to relieve the cruiser Despatch.

Britain thus will have her highest-ranking Admiral in the Western Mediterranean in touch with the islands which lie on the Anglo-French trade lanes.

Mallorca, largest of the islands, has been in the hands of Spanish insurgent General Franco for a year and it has been reported an Italian air base is established there.

East of Mallorca lies the other important Balearic Island—Minorca—which still is held by the Spanish Government. It was here that an Air France base was attacked Monday.

The comparatively narrow strip of water between Minorca and the Italian island of Sardinia is the main route between France and her African possessions, while Mallorca is near Britain's main route to her Eastern Mediterranean bases at Malta and Alexandria.

FRENCH

PARIS.—On the eve of his visit with the Duchess to the United States, the Duke of Windsor yesterday at the weekly luncheon of the Anglo-American Press Association in Paris in a vigorous speech called for fair play from the press and gave a direct denial to all reports and rumour that his visits to Germany, the United States and possibly elsewhere later had any political or ulterior motive.

(In reply to a question, the Duke said he would not visit Canada "this time," according to an Associated Press report.)

He was now "a very happily married man," he said, but both he and his wife were unwilling to lead a purely inactive life of leisure and were seeking "to make some contribution as private individuals toward solving some of the vital problems that beset the world." Their success would depend on whether they were "given fair treatment."

There was no note of complaint against the press in the Duke's frank statement and no criticism. He was "astonished and failed to understand" how certain speculations and misstatements came to be printed.

AMERICAN

WASHINGTON.—The peace conference of the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization was obviously near collapse last night.

Only extensive concessions from both sides, which neither seemed willing to make, could, it was generally believed, keep the meetings alive much longer.

Finding their respective peace proposals devoid of any common ground that could be made a basis for compromise, the conferees adjourned yesterday until Thursday, Nov. 4th. Many wondered if even that scheduled meeting would take place.

Earlier the submission of the A.F.L.'s peace plan showed the two organizations to be poles apart in their search for a formula upon which they could end the strife that has disrupted the American labor movement for nearly two years.

While Tuesday the C.I.O. demanded that it be admitted to the A.F.L. on terms under which it probably would dominate the latter, the A.F.L. demanded yesterday that the C.I.O. "shall be immediately dissolved."

CHINESE

SHANGHAI.—Shanghai's heavily guarded international settlement was tense today as the Japanese war machine swept through fire-blackened ruins of the Chapei sector to storm the railway bridge spanning Soochow Creek, west of the city.

With the foreign areas besieged by milling hordes of Chinese civilians, the British command sent reinforcements to keep its lines intact at Brenan and Keswick roads where terrified Chinese sought refuge from burning Chapei which Chinese troops evacuated yesterday. About 35,000 refugees were admitted to the Settlement.

As had the British command earlier, Admiral Yarnell of the United States Asiatic fleet authorized United States Marines to shoot at any airplane attacking them or non-combatants.

Further upstream, to the west of the International Settlement, Chinese troops were entrenched on the south side of the creek, defending a narrow strip of the native city between the stream and the foreign area.

The National Conference of the S.C.M.

PLANS are now well under way for a National Conference of Canadian University Students to be held in Winnipeg during the Christmas Holidays. While this Conference is being sponsored by the Student Christian Movement, the organization hopes that it will include many representative groups making the Conference truly a 'Student' conference in the fullest sense of the word. If this is achieved, as it most probably will be, the Conference will do much to bring the opinions of the various campuses across the Dominion into reaction with one another, for the Conference hopes to be nationwide in its scope.

Many subjects are now on the agenda, and more will be added. At present it is hoped to consider questions concerning Canada's Foreign Policy, Education, Student Life, Industry, the Control of Society and Religion. Each of these main topics is being broken down into subheadings and it is hoped that adequate discussion will evolve around each subject.

Such a Conference at this time of increasing provincialism in Canada can do much in shaping the future of student thought in this country and thus ultimately in shaping the policies in the country.

Those interested in the movement should get in touch with the Conference Headquarters in Strathcona Hall if they have not already been approached.

Student Apathy—An Obituary

STUDENT apathy is dead. The winding sheet has been wrapped around its last remains and the nails in its coffin have been hammered home. It is no longer smart to be cynical, to regard who are active in campus clubs and activities as so many well-meaning idiots.

Stands are packed at football games. The Debating Union has every indication of a high tide in oratorical effort—the gentle art having even spread to those grim men of action—the Engineers. Freshmen and Freshettes crowded to the Pep Rally, class dinners, the Weiner Roast and a Freshman Prom that struck a new high in attendance over any Proms in the past. The Daily has had a more than welcome influx of prospective news-hounds. The situation for the Revue looks very bright, if one may judge from the variety of talent displayed at the Freshie Dinner.

Things are looking up on the campus generally. Is it because of the heavy registration this year? We do not think so. Mere number does not engender enthusiasm. Enthusiasm is a sign of the times. The 'moanin' low songs of the depression are passe. The "what's the use" attitude is as dead as a door-nail. A new spirit of exuberance is abroad.

If McGill can manage to catch the enthusiasm of the Freshman Class, as it seems to have, we will have a year of student activity unparalleled on the campus.

She Certainly Was . . .

WE had the good fortune to listen to the Jack Benny program this past Sunday evening at 7. The good fortune . . . since it seemed to us to have been one of the best programs we have ever heard on the air, including all the others that were ever done by Mr. Benny et al. There is something intriguing in a program which has the audacity to have a voice like Andy Devine's impersonate Loretta Young! He made the least expensive wife it has ever been our fate to encounter,—and how!

This idea of killing a newly-released movie every week is a good one. Particularly do we like it since it gives us a fair notion of what the picture is not about so that we can talk our best girl friend into staying home and listening to the radio. . . .

Since Kenny Baker has grown up he seems to be getting quite as much applause before and after his songs as does Schlegelmann before and after his entrances, and that's quite an accomplishment. However, they can't equal Mary Livingstone. There doesn't seem to be anyone in radio who would have nerve enough to do and say the things she does, and still remain "her usual charming self",—which she is.

They're Happy.

DID you hear the Stroud Twins on Sunday night at 8.00 p.m.? Well, if you didn't, you don't know how near, and yet how far, apart, enthusiasm and indifference may be. Aside from the fact that Clarence and Claude Stroud personify these two antitheses in their broadcasts, they are very good comedians as well. If you consider the possibility of carrying on a very animated and comical conversation with a person who will answer nothing but monosyllables to your fountain of enthusiasm and goodwill you will have an inkling of what Clarence is up against. Not content with being indifferent himself, Claude has an infectious influence on all his acquaintances, so much so that he had Nelson Eddy, Dorothy Lamour, and Don Ameche imitating his sang froid. Nice going, Claude! If this keeps up we might have silent or monosyllabic radio programs in the near future.

Hark, My Children . . .

IF you wish to hear a very good program, one that promises to be the best yet, listen to Rudy Vallee's Variety Hour tonight at 8.00 p.m. It's going to be the eighth anniversary program of the Variety Hour, and to celebrate the occasion Mr. Vallee has promised to invite many of the people who were featured at one time or another on this program. It should be interesting, especially since some of these are now "big shots" in their own right.

Column on the Dance

HOW did the Modern Dance originate? What relation has it to the Ballet? Who are the outstanding Personalities in it? Is it a combination of trucking, tapping and hair-raising contortions?

We propose to discuss the Modern Dance in terms of the living personalities who best personify its form and content. In each case we will deal with the dancer historically, in terms of his own development, as well with the stage he has reached today.

When It Originated

THE post-war period was a period when people took stock of their lives, their thoughts and their ideas. Many things had changed—the change being in the direction of a more realistic interpretation of things. This attitude was reflected in all art movements. It is particularly noticeable in the dance world, especially in the Modern Dance movement which is perhaps the exact antithesis of the Ballet. The Modern Dance Movement as it grew, especially in America, was a reaction against the artificiality of the Ballet, which had reached its peak of development in 1917, in Diaghileff Ballet Russe.

There have been many names connected with the reaction—amongst them Isadora Duncan, Ted Shawn and Ruth St. Denis, Doris Humphrey, Charles Weidman, Martha Graham and others. I think that we can trace the beginning of this movement to Isadora Duncan and Ruth St. Denis. Today we propose to tell you about Isadora Duncan.

Isadora Duncan's Art

ISADORA DUNCAN was the first to insist that the dancer's body be regarded simply as an instrument for the expression of emotional concepts, and not as a performing machine. For the type of movement she herself made use of there was no need for an elaborate gymnastic training; to walk and run, to turn and leap, and do them beautifully and with integrity was perhaps sufficient. As the demands of movement in contemporary practice have grown, this is, of course, no longer adequate, but again it is not that the roots of her method have changed, but that they have been stimulated to a fuller flowering.

The ballet was to Isadora the epitome of everything objectionable, not only in its training methods but in its social implications and its esthetic origins. Her objection to it was perhaps of twofold origin, for not only did she demand freedom of method in art, but in every phase of her life she was militantly anti-authoritarian. She was contemptuous of social position and financial prestige, and the philosophy which underlay this feeling found its way frequently into her dancing. Many times she turned her art to the propagation of her convictions about the freedom of mankind, politically and economically, as well as spiritually.

She drew no line at all between what should or should not be danced about, besides that natural line, created by the vigor of her convictions about a subject. To separate the dance from life was inconceivable. And life was, for her, many-sided and intense. She uttered the truth as she felt it, and felt no allegiances to any other than "nature of man."

In this brief digest of her theory it is possible to find the whole platform of the modern dance, its basic truths and its infinite adaptability. The valiant and memorable work, which has been done since her time, has been spent in the rearing of a super-structure upon this foundation: adapting, developing, unfolding its laws and their application.

It is to be noted that Isadora's personal influence upon the American field has been small in the direct line. None of the outstanding dancers of the day was her pupil or was trained in her method, and few, if any of them, ever so much as saw her dance. Her dancing has been simply the background against which one inevitably moved, a part of general consciousness.

No dancer of any sensitiveness could have failed to be touched by her career; once their eyes had been opened it was impossible for them to go back to the old way. Others were first inspired to dance only after she had prepared the road. Indeed, except for the hard-shell academic balletomane, who was as remote from her influence as the inhabitants of the Australian bush, it is safe to say that every dancer was in this sense an imitator, for she had changed the nature of the dance and there was no alternative.

Insult To a Gentleman's Hat

WOMEN, perhaps, are not peerlessly fine, Lousy with beauty, nor steeped in perfection, Nor greatly abounding in all the high-sounding And saccharine charms of poetic reflection.

Women, it's true, have a fondness for clutching Each other and shrieking, "My DEAR! I'm in LOVE!" No doubt they've a fondness for platinum blondness Which never was sent them from Heaven above.

Women can't learn that it's brutal to turn Wise men into saps and he-men into petters. At football they sometimes INSIST that they'll cheer For the cute little team in the pretty blue sweaters.

Women, what's more, are responsible for The number of freshmen who flunk every test Who else but the ladies turn life into Hades With lines that are borrowed from Dietrich and West?

Oh, yes, it is true, we've a genius to do The things that make gentlemen grimly abhor us— But there is ONE fault where we HAVE drawn a halt— It isn't the LADIES who wear GREEN FEDORAS!

—Isabel Kneeland.

HOMES TO BE BETTER.

HOME, for the next generation, will be more than merely a "parking place for the night," according to Dr. William Field Ogburn, University of Chicago sociologist.

New inventions are going to change most everything, including types of home recreation and conveniences, he said. Radio and television, talking books and wireless, which makes it possible to print newspapers in the home, are only a few.

"Electricity will multiply the home conveniences which now are measured in the thousands," he said. "It has already transferred one industry from the factory to the home, namely, the manufacture of ice. Successful competition may arise from away-from-the-home activities, such as window shopping, club life, motion pictures, etc."

Inventions affecting the construction of houses will tend to make the houses more attractive as living places, while the trailer will change the nature of the summer and winter vacation dwellings.

"New industries will develop based on television, alloys, the photo-electric cell, plastics, pre-fabrication of dwellings, photography, air conditioning, talking books, artificial food products, steep flight aircraft, tray agriculture and synthetic fibers," he continued.

Nationalism will be furthered by the use of radio television and photography as propaganda vehicles. Synthetic products to take the place of materials formerly imported will foster high tariffs and increase nationalism also.

Among Those Present

I WATCH him slumping in his place, A drowsy look upon his face, I know that soon his eyes will close, And then he'll comfortably doze.

How peacefully he slumbers there. We take some notes. He doesn't care. He sleeps so soundly and so well, I wonder if he'll hear the bell! But what I wonder even more Is: WHEN WILL HE BEGIN TO SNOORE?

SEA-SCAPE

THE chill air is stirred
By the breath of the morning;
The first red rays of sunrise
Startle the eastern sky
The white masses on the sandstone ridges
Quickened and dissolve
Into a flock of sea-birds,
Their sad keening
Floats over the stirred grey sea
As they wheel ever descending
Until their snowy breasts
Are hid in the dark water.

—Margaret Clare.

LAMENT

THE wind drives over the moor
The dark night covers me like a shroud
I go wandering—ever seeking—
And the wind calls
"Where are you? Where are you?"
The long grass answers "Hush, hush!"
O Shadows of Night
That are luring me on
Still seeking for one who is gone
I know the stars may shine
In the vaulted ceiling of blue, so deep it is black—
That the wind and rain
Will tear the dead leaves from the gaunt stark trees—
But I also know that I am alone on the moor
Alone—
Thou, the soul of this place,—art gone.

—Margaret Clare.

Correspondence

Dear sir:
Monday night at the Freshman Prom everyone seemed to have a good time, but somebody's idea of a joke has gone too far. Perhaps you have heard of the missing flag, perhaps not. Well here's what happened.

The Athletic Office kindly lent one of their silk McGill Martlet Banners to the Arts Undergraduate Society to be hung up in the Union Cafeteria during the Freshmen's Dinner and later for the Dancers Supper. However, a short while before the late supper was served somebody took a great liking to this banner and walked off with it, leaving the curtain rod to which it was sewed hidden behind a curtain. Well, this banner had been signed for. The responsibility for its return rests on the shoulders of the signer, if it is not returned, he will have to replace it at his own expense. Is this McGill Spirit? Is this the kind of thing we are to expect from the class of '41 during the next few years? Or perhaps it was one of the Upper Classmen who came to the dance? Anyhow, as a result of this act by one person, our opinion of the freshmen has greatly diminished, or are they really men? If so, let the chap who took a loan of the banner return it to the Tuck Shop in the Union, no questions will be asked, and the whole incident will be considered closed.

Yours very truly,
C. A. ROSS.

Gentlemen,
We think that an editorial on more informal dress for male students would be appropriate in the near future.

Damn it, gentlemen, we only have five or six more years in which we can hope to dress comfortably.

Yours Truly,
Guys from God's Country.

The Editor:
Dear sir—
The McGill Women Students' Athletic Association wishes to thank, through the medium of your column, the students who so kindly acted as linesmen and referees for the Intercollegiate Tennis Meet held at McGill this week-end. We wish also to express our thanks to the girls who were so good as to provide us with the use of their cars for the transportation of the visiting teams during their stay in Montreal.

Sincerely,
BEATRICE BARCLAY,
President, M.W.S.A.A.

CLOSE SHAVES—TENDER SKINS

MEN have suffered for a long time from over-sensitive faces, reluctantly performing the social duty of shaving. Shaving creams, lotions, and other facial preparations have been devised to make shaving a pleasure. None have seemed to be just what men wanted.

At last science has told men what causes tender faces. Research experts in the Mellon Institute have discovered the cause after many years of work, during which men shaved under scientifically controlled conditions.

In a report to the Medical Journal they state definitely that tender faces are caused by shaving.

Shaving, and that alone, is the cause, they say.

Another pertinent fact brought to light was that as much skin is shaved off as hair and if the face is gone over twice, the amount of skin taken off increases.

While scientists took years to discover these facts, college freshmen have reached the same conclusions in a few minutes when they performed their first shaving rites.

What men would like to know is how to avoid a tender face, and how to remove only hair with a razor. Science does not explicitly say but implies thru its findings that neglect of shaving is a sure cure.—Syracuse Orange.

H. L. MENCKEN TALKS

"I NEVER enjoyed writing anything."

"I think Gertrude Stein is a farce. She has no ideas and can't express them."

"Oh, Lewis (Sinclair Lewis)." I pity his poor wife."

"Red (Sinclair) Lewis. He is at large. That is about all you can say."

"Grammar schools attempt to teach an English not spoken by anybody."

"Would Roosevelt accept a third term if he could get it? Did any politician ever refuse a job?"

Thus spoke Henry L. Mencken, sally "Sage of Baltimore," eminent contemporary author and former editor of the American Mercury, who addressed Professor John H. H. Lyon's class in Contemporary Literature yesterday afternoon.

Before beginning to talk, he cleared his voice and apologized for its tenor, explaining that its condition was owing to "alcohol and senility." He rather replied to the audience than addressed them, referring continually to a list of questions supplied by Professor Lyon, fingering the paper gingerly meanwhile as though it were a rare specimen of some kind. There was formality, no attempt to impress. Even his humor came out naturally. If a question didn't interest him, he simply said, "I don't know. I wouldn't try to answer that one."

—Columbia Spectator.

The question of financing physical examinations was brought up by Gilbert H. Smith, assistant professor of sociology. "I will approve such a movement if the association can find some way to finance it," he stated. Smith said that he believed the government should pay the medical fee for an examination rather than the individual.

"I believe that there should be both a mental and physical examination," Charles H. Bumstead, instructor in psychology, said in giving his approval of the plan. He agreed with Doctor Schmidt that it is a difficult problem to set the standards for such an examination. Dr. Howard O. Eaton, professor of philosophy, approved the plan but stated that he was unqualified to give an opinion.

FROSH DEFEAT MACDONALD FOR THIRD VICTORY

Flash Strong Finish, Scoring
Eight Points in Last Quarter

BACKFIELD BRILLIANT

Loyola and Freshmen Tied With Six Points Each, But
McGill Has Game
Advantage

By G. S.

ED by the brilliant playing of its backfield, McGill's Freshman team defeated Macdonald College in a hard-fought rugby game at Molson Stadium yesterday afternoon by the score of 12-0. The Frosh put up a strong finish as eight of their points were scored in the last quarter. Moore scored the only touchdown of the game when, in culmination to the team's 60-yard march, made by completing yards on successive times, he grabbed Foster's forward pass to fall over the goal-line.

From start to finish it was the smooth playing of the Red backfield which swung the balance as Foster kicked and passed strongly, as Bill Stronach exhibited some long runs and intercepted two of the Aggies' forwards, and as McLurg booted two drop kicks to amass six points. The Macdonald Aggies were on even footing with the Red team and until the last quarter threatened the McGill goal-line. Neish, Eastman and Carlyle were the driving punch of the green and gold team. The win placed McGill in a first place tie with Loyola for leadership of the Eastern Intermediate, Collegiate League. McGill has an extra game advantage and will be out to gather the needed victory when they play a return game with the Aggies this Saturday.

FIRST QUARTER.

The first quarter found the Aggies mostly in McGill territory when the Red team's plays weren't clicking. Griffin and Casserly plunged well for the Aggies but couldn't make yards. Stronach made yards on a straight running play. But on the next play Dunn intercepted a McGill forward. On the exchange of kicks Griffin provided an equal match to Foster. A bad snap cost McGill loss of the ball and Macdonald Aggies lost a good chance to score when two drop kicks missed their mark. With three minutes left till half-time Neill went crashing through to make 25 yards. Foster kicked a point on McGill's first down.

A fumble by the Aggies shortly after the kickoff gave McGill possession of the ball on Macdonald's 25-yard line. McGill placed a drop kick between the goal posts for three points. Macdonald fought back and made yards twice on plays by Neish, Casserly and Carlyle. Smith recovered a McGill fumble. But the tide of battle soon turned. Playing from their 30-yard line, Sylvester and Foster made yards for McGill. An end run by McLurg and Stronach was good for yards. After a plunge by Neill, Perry went weaving through the opposition to make 20 yards. Neill made yards again for the Red team. With the ball now on Macdonald's 30-yard line Perry threw a forward to Moore, who made a touchdown. The Red team, on plays by Neill and Stronach, again carried the ball in front of the Aggies goal-posts. McLurg booted a drop kick between them to make the score 12-0 for the Frosh.

Macdonald College then resorted to forward passing, but their passes were inaccurate. Stronach intercepted two of them. The last play of the game found McGill deep in the Aggies' territory, mostly the result of Stronach's interceptions and a completed forward pass from McLurg to Wright.

COMMERCE DOWNED BY ARTS IN TOUCH RUGBY FIXTURE 12-0

IN A scheduled Touch Rugby Football Game played on the lower campus yesterday, Arts defeated the Commerce entry 12-0. The game was very fast and hard fought throughout and the two lineups who acted as officials and spectators were kept in a state of morbid excitement throughout. In the first half, the Arts opened strongly, and Commerce took possession on a fumble. They tried end runs, bucks, and passes, but only threatened the line on three occasions. Arts regained, and showing beautiful interference (they play American rules) crossed the line for the first score with Roseman doing the All-American act. In this half the teams looked evenly matched, and hope for a Commerce victory were still running high.

SECOND HALF.

In the second half, however, the Arts went into a huddle all by themselves, and came out with a policy that was foolproof. Their beauty and brains just couldn't be balanced by any figures the accountants could produce. The final score came when Graves caught an accidental thirty yard pass in center and raced across the line. As the game ended, the Arts were nearly in scoring position again but didn't seem to be able to carry the ball past their own twenty-five yard line.

Lineups were: Arts: Roseman, Shuchat, Kobernick, Spencer, Welton, Bigelow, Graves, and Giffon. Commerce: Ward, Eaves, Fitzpatrick, Lemieux, Shaw, O'Donnell and Baribeau.

The next league game will feature the Engineers matching figures with the Commerce students, as the slide rulers attempt to duplicate the Arts hat trick on Friday at five on the lower campus.

SENIOR GRID SQUAD READY FOR QUEENS

Team Put Through Fast Session Last Night—Western at Toronto Saturday

Following a session of calisthenics, dummy-tackling and signals, the Senior football squad were pronounced in A-1 condition for their struggle with Queen's in Kingston Saturday. Tonight another scrimmage may be held, with the team tapering off tomorrow. A victory for the Redmen is imperative this Saturday to keep them in the running for a playoff position. While Queen's are playing hosts to McGill, Toronto will be at home to Western in a crucial match which may greatly alter the league schedule. A victory for Toronto will place them in a tie with Western for first place with five points apiece. The winner of the Queen's-McGill game will be close behind with four.

A large number of fans are expected to accompany the team to Kingston, and give the boys as much vocal support as possible. The Redmen will be away two week-ends, at Kingston and Toronto, before winding up the schedule against Western here.

R.V.C. BASKETBALL.

Practices for the University team are held on Tuesday and Thursday at 5:00 in the High School. Students desiring to try out for these teams are asked to sign the card on the notice board in R.V.C. Practices begin Tuesday, November 2.

SECONDS DOWN C.N.R. GRIDDRERS IN Q.R.F.U. GAME

Final Score 7-2 Following
Rough Play at Stadium
Last Night

DUNPHY PLAYS WELL

Stars for Redmen—Squad
Plays N.D.G. Saturday—
Winner to Tie Westmount for First

PLAYING inspired football from start to finish, a fighting Red second team defeated the C.N.R. squad 7-2 last night at Molson Stadium. It was a new team that Coach Buster Fletcher sent out on the field. Faced with the loss of Cuke and G. Kaneb for the remainder of the season due to injuries and Smith, who graduated to the senior ranks, the boys tore through the C.N.R. line continually for long gains and more than made up for the loss absorbed by them at the start of the season at the hands of the Railroaders.

The score scarcely does justice to the Red team. Their plays were working smoothly and each did his part in gathering in the points. Especially outstanding, however, was the performance of Jimmy Dunphy. Dunphy cut around the C.N.R. ends on several occasions for forty yard gains besides scoring the only touchdown of the game.

DUNPHY SCORES.

The first quarter was McGill all the way. C.N.R. kicked off to McGill who then made first down on two successive plays. A long run by Dunphy and two completed forward passes put the Redmen in scoring position. Jimmy Dunphy went over for a touch and Cox converted.

The second quarter featured the plunging of Sauder and the tackling of Beveridge and Kelly for the Seconds. The Nationals, however, due to a costly fumble found themselves within scoring distance but an attempted placement went wide for one point.

No further scoring was done and the half ended McGill 6, C.N.R. 1.

The second half roughened considerably with the Railroaders doing most of the roughing. Dunphy again made several long runs around the ends but the referee seemed rather inclined to penalize the Redmen whenever they gained such advantage. Proceedings were thus brightened considerably with the Red supporters and players alike clamoring for his scalp. Cox, who had been matching kicks with Mullins all along and doing well kicked for another point before the final whistle. The final score, therefore, was McGill 7, C.N.R. 2.

CAPTURES N.S. GRID CROWN

Antigonish, N.S., October 27.—St. Francis Xavier University captured the Nova Scotia intercollegiate rugby crown here today, defeating St. Mary's College of Halifax, 24-3, in a sudden death game. The Antigonish team now meets the winner of the Mount Allison-University of New Brunswick series for the Maritime title.

From Under the Showers...

By JOHNNY EDWARDS

TORONTO, October 27th—Halfway down the stretch and the college football race as tight as a drum... which is as it should be from the standpoint of us spectators who sit in the bleachers every Saturday rain or shine and watch the lads batter and maul each other... for this year the studes of Eastern football are giving the public the best and closest exhibitions since many a year... so let's have a gander at the four squads as they round the pole at the halfway mark and see what's in the air...

Western's Mustangs are leading the loop by one full game ahead of the Blues from Varsity, but unless Claude Moore returns to the corral by next Saturday it looks from here as if last year's winners are going to tie up the league... Moore is a big factor in every play that Storen has given his lads and if he returns to take some of the burden from Shirk and Kennedy, these teams' next meeting should see the classic of the Fall season... quarterback Gray's return to the Blues means that from now on they will get their passing game into the air instead of on the ground as it has been during the last two seasons, and namesake Cam's trained toe will naturally be good for plenty more points... last year the Westerns had a club that was young, sturdy, tricky, and a grand bunch of battlers... this year they have the same club but these assets are even stronger... their spirit is typical of the whole university which is making a rather desperate attempt to put football on the Western map and in every game so far this year they have put up a mighty effort... Saturday last they came from behind to overtake the leading Varsity team and almost outscored them... this Saturday with Moore running the ends and passing in his old style, we'll see a game that'll be a game! If ever a team is trying to make it their "year," it's this game band of Storen's Mustangs... watch them take Varsity right in the Bloor Street stadia...

Up at the other end of the football line, a riddled Tricolor team is trying to hold a place in the college spotlight by staying off an amazing McGill squad... Reeve's team is weakened by injuries, a thing that seems to happen to every Gael team in the past three or four years... and just as usual they are fighting to retain their spot in the close race for the Yates Cup... Their strong team weakened early in the year by graduation, they were further beset when Tuffy Griffiths suffered a leg injury that has kept him on the bench for most of the year... and Tuffy, on a club that brought up a lot of intermediates and juniors, would have been the steady factor on a defence that is on the verge of tottering... In a young and inexperienced backfield, Munro is doing the same job and making a grand effort... his punting is probably the best in the league and his catching and general all-round playing should gladden the eye of the moaning mentor... As in other years their offence seems to be far from their best feature, and, curiously enough, their famed defence melted before the crushing line from McGill... The Redmen almost doubled the Tricolor's yards from scrimmage and their runbacks on punts put the Queen's backs to shame. So naturally these Gaels are pretty much of a question mark at this time.

Not so the Redmen from Montreal... with a powerful line playing heads up ball in front of a fast and rather sensational backfield, these boys are going to be the surprise package of the college league... Already this year they upset the dope-cart once and this coming Saturday ought to see them doing it again... McGill's best feature is that they offer a great variety in their attack, for they possess the best line in the group and a trio in Merrifield, McConnell and Perowne that should take them places in this second half of the schedule... Their kicking is supposed to be weak, but they averaged only two yards less than Munro last week in Montreal... their passing game scrambled the Beavers two weeks ago, so a dry field will in all likelihood bring out an additional deception that ought to do things... All in all, then, we pick the McGillmen to rap the goalposts around the ears of the Tricolor this coming week-end... which will in turn set the two western teams a-wondering... which will they may.

In the Big Four? Argos to upset the Ottawans even at Lansdowne Park, and Montreal Indians to take Rodden's Tigers at Molson.

WATER-POLOISTS DROP BOTH GAMES

Lose Double-Header to M.A.
A.A. Squads in League Encounters at Winners' Pool

BOTH the McGill water polo teams bowed before a terrific onslaught of the M.A.A.A. last evening the final counts in senior and junior being 13-1 and 10-2 respectively. In the junior encounter, the blue boys drove a point home in the first few minutes of play and time out was called because Soper, McGill goaler had broken his finger, nevertheless he went back into the game with one hand taped up. Knox, of the M.A.A.A. was without doubt the most outstanding player, taking five of the ten counters for the M.A.A.A. Both teams played good fast games, the penalties being few and far between. Morwood, Castell, Young and Windsor accounted for nearly all the points for the M.A.A.A. and in the senior tilt Rabinovitch scoring the one goal for McGill. Young pulled a fast one on the Redmen when he swam unnoticed under water to the McGill nets and caught a long pass to end the scoring. The line ups were as follows:

LINEUPS.

The lineups for the games were as follows:
Junior game: McGill—Soper, Barza, McGuire, Cobernick, Markham, Cameron, Gold, Kelland, M.A.A.A.—Buckingham, Knox, Etienne, Quip, Brebner, Harling, Eden, Terry and Mahon.
Senior game: McGill—Shragovitch, Shapiro, Ross, Bourne, Lindsay, Royer, Crabtree. M.A.A.A.—

GRADS PLAN ENTRY INTO INTERMEDIATE LOOP THIS SEASON

Plans Discussed at Graduate
Society's Annual Athletic Meeting

ENTER HOCKEY LEAGUE

Plan to Challenge for Allan
Cup Through This Circuit—Stars Lined Up

The Union was the scene of a highly enthusiastic meeting last evening when the Graduates' Athletic Society convened for their annual meeting. Over 100 graduates were present at the get-together when the athletic policy was discussed, reports given, and other matters taken into consideration.

Ken Farmer

Perhaps the most important announcement was by Kenny Farmer to the fact that the Grads' hockey team would operate in the Montreal Intermediate League, the games being scheduled for Friday evenings. Other teams in the league would include the McGill Intermediates, Westmount, Villaray, St. Jerome, and University of Montreal. A strong group of ex-Redmen have been lined up to challenge for the Allan Cup through this league.

VARIOUS REPORTS

Reports from all member clubs were given—basketball, hockey, football, swimming, skiing, soccer, track. Special emphasis was placed on support of undergraduate and inter-scholastic sports sponsored by the Grads. George Jost gave a well-received report on the activities of the Red Birds Skiing Club. Other speakers included Jimmy De Lalloune, Palmer Howard, Carvel Hammond, Dr. A. S. Lamb, Ev. Crutchlow, Herb Murphy.

FENCING.

Fencing lessons and practice, in the future, will be held at Strathearn School (on Jeanne Mance street just north of Prince Arthur) at 5:00 p.m. to 7 p.m. on Mondays, Tuesdays, and Fridays, beginning this week.

LOYALIST ACT DENOUNCED AS RED ATROCITY

schools and convents which had been transformed into prison houses. There they were piled together like galley-slaves and thousands taken out periodically and shot to make room for the others which kept arriving. The corpses were photographed before burial and the photograph numbered and placed in a death gallery for identification, if necessary. There were some 65,000 such photographs, according to the information amassed by the Marquis of Valdaiglesias about the time of which we are speaking.

The chief of one of these bands of murderers was a person whom we only know by his nickname, Ramirez el cojo, Ramirez the lame fellow. This man was strongly built, of vulgar aspect, with cruel eyes and a thick black beard. He was one of the greatest butchers of this bloodthirsty period, and his name has been coupled with other similar names like those of Aladell and Lister, frequently mentioned in our papers as leader of a division. This Ramirez was well-known at Valjuanete, where he had worked as a common labourer in the old days. Now, as a chieftain of the proletariat, he thought that a fitting reward for his great services would be the possession of the Duke of Veragua's estate at Valjuanete. He formed his plan in accordance and carried it into execution. On a certain night in August 1936 he and his band invaded the Duke's palace, burst open the doors, took the Duke and the Duke's cousin El Marques de Aguilera Fuente from their beds, beat them up when they asked for explanations and led them in a high-speed car to Ramirez's secret "Cheka" and prison house. They also took with them and imprisoned a faithful servant of the Duke's called Augustin. All three, were placed in separate cells. This lair of Ramirez's was located in the New Convent of San Domestico, in the street called Velasquez to the north of El parque del Retiro. It was well concealed by its central location. There are no particulars regarding what took place at this prison house. All that is known is that the Duke and his cousin were subjected to torture and had to endure privations of all kinds.

AID FROM ANGELITA.

The news of the Duke's disappearance spread immediately through Madrid. The ambassadors of Chile and La Argentina rushed to Del Vayo to ask for explanations. The latter was extremely sorry. He couldn't help it. He was quite innocent. He promised, however, to order a police investigation. At the end of a fortnight he had discovered nothing and the affair was abandoned. Then the unexpected happened. At the Embassy of the Argentine Republic was employed a young girl of the name of Angelita. Angelita she was called. Her beauty had procured her some useful acquaintances among the red militia, and one of them revealed to her the whereabouts of the prisoner in which the Duke was held. Angelita informed the Argentine Ambassador, who rushed immediately to Del Vayo with the information. That very evening, at 10 o'clock, Perez Quesada, a man in Del Vayo's confidence, was despatched to the ex-Convent with a squadron of Assault guards to procure the release of the two noble prisoners. Ramirez was ready for them. He knew that if he handed over the prisoners his hopes of acquiring the Duke's estate were gone forever, likewise his reputation as a capable and ruthless chieftain of the people. He temporized. He received Perez Quesada in his office, professed himself ready to conform to the latter's wishes, but asked for a personal order from the Minister. "Come back tomorrow," he said, "and the prisoners will be duly handed over to you." When Quesada was gone, Ramirez got immediately to work. How he did it we cannot know, but we may conjecture that it was by torture, by reducing the Duke to a condition in which he did not know what he was doing, that he was able to wrest from him a Will and Testament drawn up in regular form in which the Duke "by the grace of God, sound of mind and in full possession of his faculties" bequeathed to "his very dear friend" all his goods and belongings. Then at 3 o'clock in the morning the old Duke and his cousin were removed from the convent, placed among armed militia men in a closed car, rushed along the Paseo de la Castellana beyond Fuencarral to the Bosque del Pardo, where they were invited to descend and shot at close range with revolvers. Their corpses were abandoned on the edge of the boulevard of Colmenar. The following day when Quesada presented himself at the ex-Convent he was informed that the prisoners were dead and that their bodies might be found 10 kilometers from Colmenar. Quesada expressed no surprise. He took note of the two deaths and departed with his guards. The police ordered the corpses to be taken away and photographed, and that ended the matter. No further allusion was made to it.

HOSTILE RECEPTION.

The story is told of Ramirez's appearance in a magnificent car shortly after at Valjuanita and the hostile reception which was given to him when he presented the will to the Duke's agent. He has disappeared, no one knows where, probably murdered. But many years must pass before the memory of this foul deed shall fade away from the minds of Spaniards.

AUDIENCE HEAR LIVELY DEBATE IN MOCK HOUSE

destroy civilization by its provocative and warlike policies. The opposition, led by Boris Wallis, insisted that a boycott of Japanese goods would result in the ruining of Canada's export trade with Japan, and thus have an adverse effect on Canadian economy. Politically, it would result in making an enemy out of Japan, and in straining international relations. Since there exists an even chance that the boycott will not prove very harmful to Japan, the opposition stated that the risks involved in antagonizing Japan were too great to take. The issue involving Geisha girls was very hotly and passionately debated at the outset. In this connection Prime Minister Gross denied that he issued a statement to the McGill Daily saying that 10,000 Geisha girls were imported into Canada in the last year. However, he was forced to admit that the government did allow the importation of 200. On this ground the opposition contended that the government was not morally fit to introduce a motion supposedly with a moral purpose in view.

ENGINEERS HOLD SECOND DEBATE

"Who Wants My Empire?" in "Esquire" stated that the average man in Great Britain dislikes colonists. He further stated that Canada is well situated to become a great nation and that she would if she were under the direction of the United States. Roosevelt's policies, he said, improved the economic conditions of the United States and can do the same for Canada. He said that Great Britain's place as guardian of the peace has been taken over by the United States and we must look therefore to the States, not Britain, for assurance of that. Monogues, the second speaker for the negative, said that the British policies are much more stable than the American and expressed his doubt as to what the American foreign policy is. He said: "What is the American foreign policy? God only knows, the Americans don't." Britain, he said, is a much better nation to be with because it not only has more prestige, but also has strong allies such as France and Russia, whereas, the United States' allies are but the weak Pan-American Union.

After the decision in favour of the negative side was rendered Professor Culliton gave some brief comments. After congratulating the Engineering Society, he said that there is not much choice between either of the foreign policies. He said that Smyth, whose presentation he thought very good, convinced him of that. He stated that Abramowitz could have been the best speaker, but wasn't because: "He lounges like a professor." He thought Monogues' argument and presentation the best. He congratulated the worthy opponents for not debating about what the subject to be debated about was, and for not having told any deliberate lies. "Truth," he said, "is one of the things you should aim at."

PROF. P. J. TURNER DEPICTS CASTLES

With the aid of slides Prof. Turner succeeded in portraying, in their minutest detail, not only the general structure of the castle, but also in describing the social life of the English people, the simplicity with which they lived, the discomforts which they bore, are shown in the castle, an "authentic record not only of war but also of peace."

With the coming of gun-powder, however, the role of the castle vanished as a defensible structure. Yet, in the fifteenth century the plan of the castle was not entirely abandoned. Many of the English nobility instead utilized the grandeur of the castle, often expanding the narrow moats to lakes forming estates famed for their beauty. The castle in all cases "stands proud in their ruined strength, needing no manly veredure to render them romantic."

played by Professor Hatcher to clarify Professor Fantham's value as a worker and he concluded his tribute with a sincere statement of attachment toward the deceased.

BAYLEY DISCUSSES WORLD SITUATION AT CLUB MEETING

Italy's position in this case is very delicate. On the one hand her sympathies lie with General Franco, but on the other hand she must not antagonize Britain and France to such a degree that they will be forced to resort to the use of arms, consequently she must stall for time. Russia, though volubly on the offensive against the stalling moves of Italy must, perforce, remain a member of the Non-Intervention Sub-Committee for fear of being left in European isolation through the formation of a four-power pact consisting of Britain, France, Germany and Italy, should she carry out her threat of withdrawal. In discussing the Far Eastern situation, Mr. Bayley said that it was becoming graver and graver as time went on, due to the frequency of incidents involving the health, lives and property of British, French, and American subjects. He also said that flagrant violations of the Nine-Power Treaty, which guaranteed the sovereignty of China, were bound to lead to some decisive steps in the near future, due to the importance of the interests involved.

definite influence on the Government. It is well known that at the Imperial Conference, the Canadian Government insisted very strongly on its right to determine independently its foreign and defence policy. The petition served to counteract the pressure of certain influential parties who in practice ignore the fact that Canada has emerged from subservient colonial status, to that of a free unit of the British Commonwealth of Nations."

COMMITTEE HEAD ANNOUNCES DATE OF CHARITY DRIVE

addressing the student body in general in the near future, I wish to renew my appeal to those students particularly who can, by making their donations through the McGill drive instead of through other channels enhance the prestige of the University.

To all students, may I extend my earnest and sincere plea for your generous response to the canvassers who will shortly be calling on you for your donation.

Sincerely yours,
Clarence R. Gross,
Chairman, McGill Amalgamated Charities.

SOCIAL PROBLEMS CLUB CONVENES TO ELECT EXECUTIVE

ures as Andre Malraux, the Spanish delegation, Scott Nearing, Norman Thomas and Adrien Arcand addressed the club on different occasions. Smaller meetings and social gatherings were also arranged for those who were actual club members. The Spanish Medical Aid campaign conducted during the second term last year brought some 50 members of the club directly into its activities and collected about $160 for Dr. Bethune's medical unit in Spain.

For the coming term it is proposed to add to the general outline of last year's activities 2 or 3 commissions. These will study specific problems such as cooperatives, nationalism in Quebec, etc. As many members as possible will be involved in the variety of activities which are planned.

Any student on the campus is eligible for membership in the Social Problems Club. Monday's meeting is open to any McGill student who is interested in the club's activities.
